The power of making one simple decision can change a Haitian child's life forever.

Has anyone ever considered reducing their "junk food" budget or the number of pit stops made to Dunkin Donuts, Starbucks, or MacDonald's? What is considered expendable daily income, if rerouted once a week and invested in a child's education, can provide a different future for a Haitian child. Believe it or not there are actually kids in the world who WANT to go to school but cannot because the cost for their family is prohibitive, especially in a country like Haiti where all schools charge a tuition and mandate school uniforms. All school supplies including textbooks must be purchased by students.

The children in the photos represent over a hundred children in our mountain villages who are waiting for a school sponsor. The greatest need in Haiti is education. Haitians are intelligent, hardworking, and creative. With few financial resources or opportunities to provide enough money for school tuition. Take the time to add up what you spend daily on unnecessary items and when you reach $100 evaluate what you have in terms of "lasting effects" of this investment. Compare that information against providing the opportunity of sending one of these children to school to learn how to READ, and WRITE, a forever gift. If you find that this is something that YOU can do to make a difference in the life of a child complete the form and send in your $100 investment. You may select one of these children or leave it up to the Haiti Plunge to select a child for you Sponsor
